

Wednesday, April 30th 2014
1:00–2:30pm
Healey Library, 11th Floor, 0011A

**Light refreshments will be served.*

Kati Szelenyi
Leadership in Education

Susan Miller
VP, Academic &
Student Affairs,
CCCC

Tara Parker
Leadership in Education

spring 2014 forum series

Center for Innovative Teaching

Listening to Voices of Students of Color: How White Faculty Intentionally Transform Pedagogy

This forum explores the ways White faculty transform their pedagogical practice to be more responsive to students of color.

Please join your colleagues to discuss this issue and the ways you might improve the classroom experience for students in general and students of color in particular. Tara Parker, Associate Professor of Higher Education will serve as moderator. Susan Miller, Vice President of Academic and Student Affairs at Cape Cod Community College and an alumna of UMass Boston's higher education doctoral program will present her research on White faculty using culturally relevant pedagogy and Kati Szelenyi, Assistant Professor of Higher Education will share the ways she seeks to recognize and build upon the cultural wealth of her students in a racially/ethnically diverse classroom.

For questions or assistance, please contact: faculty.development@umb.edu
Anyone requiring disability-related accommodations should visit www.ada.umb.edu